Essay

My dream career is to help others improve their quality of life with an all-inclusive wellness center. This center includes: a weight room, a pilates/yoga room, MMA mats and bags, vacuum therapy, massage therapy, acupuncture, saunas, and showers. I am very passionate about physical wellness, and would love to build and run a center that reflects my passion. This sports and recovery-oriented center will be an ideal environment for aspiring athletes, and men and women looking to improve their physical wellness one rep at a time.

Another passion I have is to coach one-on-one. My goal is to provide every client a space to practice self-development, and my job is to provide guidance for each client to reach their health goals. This center would be an ideal place for upcoming personal trainers and would also provide a facility for practicing therapies such as vacuum therapy, massage therapy, and acupuncture.

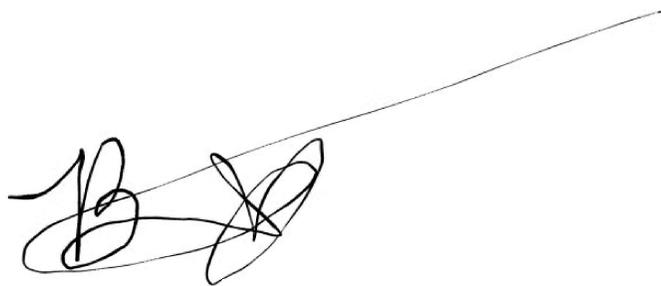

While attending Fort Lewis College, my classes will reflect my goals post-college. I will be taking business and entrepreneurial courses, as well as classes with a heavy focus on physical wellness and health. I'm a very driven person, and I am in the process of making this dream a reality one step at a time. I'm applying for the EEA Scholarship because I see purpose in what I am trying to achieve. With this scholarship, I would be one step closer to my wellness center becoming a reality. This scholarship would help relieve the financial stressors that college puts on young adults and would allow me to focus on my studies to build toward my future.

While I'm still in the process of taking my first significant steps toward my future, every movement counts, and every action taken guides me closer to fulfilling my ambitions.

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this letter on behalf of Brooke Jabour, a recent (early) high school graduate. I am Brooke's TRIO Talent Search advisor and have had the privilege and pleasure of getting to work with and know Brooke this past school year.

Brooke's record stands for itself, but I'll still happily expand on it. Brooke graduated a semester early from Mancos High School while both doing dual-enrollment and consistently working and assisting the community. This is an incredible testament to the quality of person that Brooke is - she's measured, careful, thorough, ambitious, and most of all an achiever.

She never shies away from an obstacle, frequently treating any that may come into her path like a challenge to overcome rather than a roadblock. That level of dynamism and adaptability is why I think Brooke truly deserves an opportunity for any scholarship. A scholarship for Brooke would do far more than simply help offset school costs (which is a nearly immeasurable benefit as well); a scholarship for her is truly an investment in an individual who will never take anything for granted.

Brooke has worked hard to achieve everything in her life, and that includes both academics and beyond. She's the rare sort of individual who might stumble, pick herself back up, and then who will even go beyond and make sure she never stumbles that way again. Her capacity as a student, as a community member, and as a human being in general is immense, vast, and infectious - raising those around her up simultaneously as she achieves.

My background in teaching public education for 13 years as well as my current role as a TRIO advisor has put me in the position of working with nearly countless students during my career. Brooke stands out among all of these as someone who is truly deserving of any award that may come her way.

If you have any questions or desire any clarity from me, please do not hesitate to reach out. It's a privilege to work with Brooke, and I know anyone who gets the opportunity to contribute to her journey would be able to rest assured that it's an incredible investment for the future.

To whom it may concern:

I am honored to recommend Brook Jabour for admission to your program.

I've had the pleasure of teaching Brooke for the past three years in both college-level English classes and outdoor education. In our English classes, Brooke has consistently impressed me with her dedication and enthusiasm for learning. Brooke is very intelligent and growth-focused. She embraces feedback, learns from her mistakes, and holds herself to very high standards; she seeks to understand and master concepts and skills, not just to fulfill requirements. She is outspoken and passionate, and uses her voice to advocate for herself and others, to ask insightful questions, and to engage fully and enthusiastically in complex discussions. She constantly seeks to apply her learning outside the classroom, and to make connections between academic topics and larger real-world issues.

Alongside her impressive academic strengths, Brooke is a talented and driven athlete. She balances an extremely demanding schedule of advanced coursework, athletics, and employment, demonstrating discipline, commitment and responsibility. She consistently meets deadlines, plans ahead, communicates professionally, and never gives less than her all. She shows a remarkable ability to juggle multiple responsibilities and still make time to step up to help her community when needs arise, while maintaining unwaveringly high standards.

Brooke is also skilful in collaborating with peers. Whether she's leading a group project, supporting a teammate, acting as the secretary for the MHS chapter of the National Honor Society, or contributing to class discussions, she works well with others and inspires a positive, productive atmosphere. She approaches every situation with boundless energy, humor, and a genuine sense of fun.

Brooke's combination of drive, intelligence, enthusiasm, and responsibility will enable her to thrive academically and personally, and will make her a valued contributor to her community. I recommend her highly.

Sincerely,
