Essay

My goal is to earn a bachelor's in Nursing. I have always been drawn to the field because of the combination of science and care. I have a lot of sympathy for the care of people, especially during, possibly, the hardest times in their lives. I want this career for myself due to the stability and to help others.

During my time in highschool I have worked very hard to prepare myself for the college experience especially with the demands in nursing school. In addition to my core classes, I have jumped on the opportunities of taking college courses alongside my other classes. I have completed more than 5 college classes, teaching me how to balance responsibilities like time management, attention span, and organization. With these amazing experiences It has taught me in more than one way to succeed academically.

Not only do I wish to go to college for a nursing degree, but I also wish to learn independence personally. I plan on being extremely involved on campus, in interest groups, academic groups, and more! Being involved and having this opportunity would allow me, in certain involvements, to understand patient care, teamwork, and responsibility. With this said, I am prepared to commit to that path of growth.

While I am intensely motivated and excited to pursue my BSN, one downfall is the cost that it entails. Paying for college is something that I have to do independently, although my parents help as much as they can, unfortunately my personal financial resources are limited. Because of this concern, scholarships are something that I am relying on and are essential to help cover expenses for this experience. I also plan to work while attending school to help with the cost, but I also understand that the work and effort that nursing school requires takes significant time and effort.

Receiving scholarship support would reduce financial stress and allow me to focus more fully on my studies and clinical preparation. Earning my BSN represents my commitment to a career centered on service, responsibility, and compassionate care, and financial assistance would help make this goal possible

For your consideration:

I write in enthusiastic support of Lilah Young's application for admittance into your college or university. I have known Lilah for four years, and it is my pleasure to offer this letter of recommendation to you on her behalf. She is a fine young woman who commits herself to learning, leading, helping others, and approaching life with a positive attitude.

Lilah was a student in my Integrated Science class during her freshman year, and she was a student in my Geology & Astronomy class during her junior year. She is a quiet leader who understands how to help maintain a common focus within a group of diverse personalities while working together to accomplish an important task. She intends to pursue higher learning at the college level after she completes her high school education. Lilah, I predict, will become a devoted and otherwise outstanding college student. Through admission into your college or university, Lilah will be taking a valuable step toward meeting her life's goals.

I have witnessed Lilah demonstrate many outstanding traits as a student and person. These traits include an admirable work ethic, a positive approach to life and learning, a devotion to follow through until a task is complete, an eager degree of helpfulness to myself and her classmates, and an inner desire to learn as much as she can from her studies.

Lilah never wastes time. She applies her abilities to the task at hand right away and diligently works until the job is complete, asking questions when she needs clarification or is seeking a deeper meaning from a lesson or task. In the science classroom, Lilah has shown a respect for the many important processes of science.

In my 48 years in public education, there have been many students who stand out in my memory as examples of high-quality leaders and learners. Lilah is one of those students. For these reasons, I offer to you my high recommendation of Lilah Young as an applicant for admission into your fine institution of higher learning.

Respectfully submitted,

Pete Swingle : Geology & Astronomy / Physics / Integrated Science / Drama & Theater

To the Scholarship Committee,

It is an honor to recommend Lilah Young for your scholarship program. Lilah is an exceptional student whose dedication, character, and service to her community make her highly deserving of this opportunity.

For the past two years, Lilah has demonstrated her unwavering dedication and strong work ethic at our local food market. Her reliability and responsibility, well beyond her years, have been commendable. She has also shown her commitment to her community by volunteering at the livestock auction throughout high school, supporting both her peers and local organizations. Her active participation in concession stands and fundraising events for her class is a testament to her willingness to contribute to group success.

Lilah's personal interests, which include art, jewelry making, paddleboarding, raising pigs, and gardening, reflect her diverse skills and well-rounded personality. These hobbies not only showcase her creativity, discipline, and care for her environment but also her ability to balance multiple commitments. Her role as a trusted babysitter for her family further demonstrates her patience, responsibility, and compassion.

Lilah's unique blend of academic excellence, community service, and personal growth sets her apart as a remarkable candidate for this scholarship. Her ability to not only excel in her studies but also uplift those around her is truly commendable. I am confident that she will continue to make a positive impact on her community and in her future endeavors.

I strongly recommend Lilah Young for your scholarship award. She embodies the qualities of dedication, integrity, and leadership that your program seeks to support. Her unique combination of academic excellence, community service, and personal growth makes her a strong contender for this scholarship.

Sincerely,
Michael J. Nielson Sr.
