Essay

Wrestling has been the most important part of my life for as long as I can remember. As a student-athlete, I have dedicated countless hours to practice, competition, and self-improvement, and I plan to continue wrestling throughout college. The sport has shaped who I am as a person today and inspired my career goals. I strive to pursue a degree in psychology or athletic training so I can work in a field where I combine my love for athletics with helping others. By becoming a sport psychologist or a personal athletic trainer for a college wrestling team.

Through wrestling, I have experienced first hand the mental and physical challenges athletes face on a daily basis. I know the pressure of expectations one sets on themselves, the dedication and sacrifices it takes, and the resilience it takes to overcome setbacks. My athletic experience fuels my desire to support other athletes in achieving their goals while expressing myself in a career that aligns with my passion. Helping a teammate manage mental struggles or guiding someone through injury recovery as I've suffered through ACL and double meniscus surgery are ways I can make a real impact in athletes' lives.

I always loved new experiences through wrestling. Traveling to tournaments, meeting athletes from across the country, and experiencing different communities has broadened my perspective and reinforced my dedication to the sport. By pursuing psychology or athletic training, I can continue to travel, learn, and be part of the wrestling world while helping others succeed.

I am applying for this scholarship because my family's resources are limited. As one of several children, I know my parents cannot fully support my college education while also assisting my siblings. Receiving this scholarship would allow me to pursue my dream of continuing in wrestling and studying a field I love, while easing the financial burden on my family.

I wouldn't be the man I am today without the wrestling and the people I've met throughout my career. They gave me nothing but support and I wish to continue spreading positivity into the future and other lives that share the same goals just as I once did. This scholarship allows me to make my dream a reality and turn my love and aspiration for atheism into a profession.

Subject: Letter of Recommendation for Nathan Hill

Greetings,

It is with immense pleasure that I recommend Nathan Hill for your scholarship. I had the distinct privilege of teaching Nathan at Dolores High School. At that time, he worked hard in my class and on the course. I have known Nathan for the last 12 years of his life, as I coach alongside his mother in basketball, and I have had the privilege to coach him myself.

Nathan is, without exaggeration, one of the kindest and hardworking people you will ever have the pleasure of meeting. If you ever have the pleasure of encountering him in the classroom or the gym, you would know just how respectful and upstanding he is. When Mr. Hill puts his mind to anything, he will accomplish it without fail. His character is his greatest asset. Nathan is a friend to everyone and seems to fit into any friend group because of his wonderful personality. This speaks volumes about him. He has a genuine willingness to befriend anyone and aid anyone in need. He often goes out of his way to encourage those younger than himself on the wrestling mat and to be the standard for his team. This innate trait translates exceptionally well to the academic setting Nathan is pursuing, where collaboration and a positive attitude are essential.

Beyond his admirable personal qualities, Nathan demonstrated a remarkable work ethic in both wrestling and the classroom. This young man returned from injury and dedicated himself to regaining full strength after a devastating knee injury. Nathan is the kind of student every coach wants. He wrestles hard and gets A's and B's in almost every class. As both a student and an athlete, he consistently approached his responsibilities with discipline and determination, and he was admired and highly valued by his parents, teachers, and peers. Nathan does not make excuses; he just gets results, becoming successful in all he does. He understands the importance of commitment, character, and perseverance, skills that are invaluable in an academic career. His ability to balance academic demands with athletic pursuits speaks volumes about his time management skills.

Nathan's unique blend of kindness, helpfulness, and a strong work ethic, along with his jovial nature, will make him an outstanding asset to your school. He is a reliable, conscientious, and positive individual who will undoubtedly make a significant contribution to the world someday.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you require any further information regarding Nathan Hill's qualifications.

Sincerely,

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to offer my strong recommendation for Nathan Hill in support of his application for your scholarship program. I have had the privilege of working with Nathan for the past seven months as his physical therapist, during which time I have observed not only his physical progress but also his exceptional character, determination, and resilience.

Nathan came to physical therapy following a significant injury that posed a major setback during a critical period of his high school wrestling career. From the very beginning, he demonstrated an uncommon level of determination and work ethic. He consistently approached each session with focus, discipline, and a willingness to push himself beyond what was comfortable, all while maintaining a positive and personable attitude.

What stands out most about Nathan is his mental fortitude. Rehabilitation is as much a psychological challenge as it is a physical one, and Nathan met both head-on. I watched him overcome frustration, self-doubt, and physical limitations with maturity well beyond his years. His commitment to his recovery ultimately allowed him to return to wrestling for his senior year—a goal he never lost sight of, even during the most difficult moments of his rehabilitation.

In addition to his perseverance, Nathan is personable, respectful, and a pleasure to work with. He communicates well, takes responsibility for his progress, and consistently demonstrates a willingness to learn and improve. These qualities, combined with his strong work ethic and ability to stretch himself when faced with adversity, make him an excellent candidate for this scholarship.

I have no doubt that Nathan will bring the same determination, resilience, and integrity to his academic pursuits and future endeavors as he has shown throughout his recovery. I recommend him without reservation and believe he would be a deserving recipient of your support.

Please feel free to contact me if you require any additional information.

Sincerely,
Thomas Ramage
